By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, disclosed armed guards are riding some flights operating in the United States.

"It's probably just as well not to say which ones," Tipton told the Senate aviation subcommittee Friday.

The subcommittee held hearings on legislation to make airplane hijacking a federal crime punishable by life in prison. Whether this would be enough to deter hijackers prompted discussion of the possibility of armed guards.

Two senators say that might be necessary—at least on flights within range of Fidel Castro's Cuba.

"This might be 'the best insurance we could buy,'" said Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of the subcommittee. Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., author of the proposed legislation, agreed with Monroney that "it probably would be the most constructive thing we could do."

The hijackers who took over a Boeing 707 Thursday said they wanted to force the pilot to fly into Cuba.

On July 24 an Electra plane was hijacked after take-off from Miami, Fla., and flown to Cuba. The passengers and crew were returned, but the plane was held.

On May 1 a twin-engine Convair was hijacked between Miami and Key West, Fla., and flown to Cuba. It was later allowed to return to the United States.

After Thursday's hijacking over El Paso, Tex., the Federal Aviation Agency authorized the airlines to arm crew members who had received training in the use of firearms and were proficient in handling them.

Tipton said the airlines are concerned about "the possibility of gunplay." Concern also was expressed by Herbert J. Miller Jr., assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Monroney said, however, that he is "not too concerned" about a bullet ripping a hole in the pressurized cabins of high-flying airliners. He said that planes already are equipped with oxygen masks that automatically fall into the laps of passengers if necessary.

The Kennedy administration gave its backing to the proposed hijacking legislation as a means of meeting the "menace of 'air drugs, flying fools, and spies in the sky.'"

The subcommittee called a closed-door session for Monday to act on the proposed legislation. Also under it, assaulting or threatening crew members would be made federal offenses. So would murder, robbery and other crimes committed aboard civil aircraft while in flight. And, anyone carrying a concealed weapon aboard a plane would be subject to a $1,000 fine.

French Silent on Tunisia UN Charge

PARIS (AP)—French officials were silent today on Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba's offer to call off his drive for a U.N. Assembly session to condemn France.

Officials in the Foreign and Algerian ministries were closely studying the text of Bourguiba's remarks to a news conference Thursday. He said he would drop his complaint at the U.N. if the French government agreed to discuss a timetable for evacuation of French forces from the big naval and air bases at Bizerte.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, Asian and African diplomats, with Soviet support, continued collecting the 50 signatures needed to call a special assembly session. It was obvious that the Tunisians were using the threat of U.N. condemnation at such a session to force France to the negotiating table.

The sign that President de Gaulle may be readying his response came when he summoned Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville for a report on the international situation.

The official French position on Bizerte has long been that the base is a part of Tunisia and that France will one day relinquish it to the Tunisians, preferably by agreement.

Newburgh's Welfare Plan to Limit Relief Is Attacked by N. Y. State in the Courts

By JAMES DEVLIN

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—A State Supreme Court judge today questioned the need for Newburgh's new plan to limit welfare relief, but reserved decision on a state move for a temporary injunction against it.

"In what respect are our present state laws inadequate to achieve your purposes?" Justice John P. Donohue asked a lawyer for the city.

He gave opposing attorneys approximately a week to file briefs. The court action came as City Manager Joseph D. Mitchell said he is introducing "thought control" to go along with the city's controversial 13-point welfare restriction program.

New case workers must be in "philosophical harmony" with the city administration's ideas on government before they will be hired, Mitchell said.

Prior to the hearing on the state's motion to block the welfare plan, a man standing outside the yellow stone courthouse distributed pamphlets bearing the title, "Negro Breeding Dooms Newburgh."

Negroes comprise a substantial part of the city's relief rolls. Some critics of the relief crackdown have said it was aimed at the Negroes. City officials have denied that, saying the rules apply equally to everyone.

The pamphlet bore the name of Charles Smith, editor "The Truth Seeker," an atheist publication put out in New York City. "Instead of paying Negroes on relief so much money for each child, the government should pay them not to beget children, as it now pays certain farmers for not growing grain," the pamphlet said.

"Paying each unwed Negro $3,000 to be sterilized would not only prevent ultimate race debasement, but in 10 years, would save money."

Smith, 73, later was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge for distributing the literature, and put under $500 bail for a hearing. Paxton Blair, state solicitor general, represented the state in the action. Henry Hirschberg, a special counsel, represented the city.

The state contends 12 of the 13 points of the Newburgh plan are illegal, and threaten the entire structure of federal aid throughout the state.

Negro Drowned in the Ouachita

CAMDEN, Ark. (AP)—Willie Rivers, a 13-year-old Negro drowned Thursday in the Ouachita River here but he wasn't reported missing until today.

Police said Rivers went swimming with a group of boys, including several of his brothers. The boys returned home without telling the parents. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rivers, that Willie had drowned.

Mrs. Rivers notified police today that Willie was missing and the search led to the river where the brother was located and the true story told.

Partly cloudy, warm and humid today and tonight with isolated afternoon and evening showers tonight and Sunday.

Says Police Used to Get Plan Through

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A State Police salary appropriation got in the now-invalidated omnibus bill because "they just needed 200 policemen to help pass the bill," Sen. Roy Riales of Mena said today.

Riales made his comment in reply to a question by Sen. Ellis Fagan of Little Rock as to how the $166,000 a year appropriation got into the bill. Fagan said the pay raises were continuing while the omnibus law was a "one shot deal."

The $14.5 million omnibus bill passed by the 1961 legislature was ruled unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court.

The pay matter came up while State Police Director Herman Lindsey was presenting a 479,000 budget request to the Legislative Council. This request includes $100,000 for radio communication centers in Huntsville, Little Rock and Newport.

Lindsey said it would be matched 50-50 by Civil Defense funds.

This prompted Fagan to call CP spending "a waste of money in Arkansas."

Stalin Could Have Divided West Allies

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stalin was always the heavy, mustache and all, looking for a poor old widow's mortgage to foreclose.

He might have divided the Western partners and picked them off one by one if he had tried the peppermint candy treatment in the first few years after the war.

But he didn't like candy. And he acted so trigger-happy he drove the Westerners into self-defense in a way he wanted least: military and economic alliances.

But Nikita Khrushchev is a different breed: More versatile, resourceful and imaginative.

He sounded like a real candyman, starting out with his trips, quips, and antics, and his insistence on peaceful coexistence.

His biggest obstacle—as it was in the end for Stalin—was that military alliance of Western Europe.

For a time it seemed that by sheer jolly goodfellowship he might melt it away.

That alliance—NATO, with the United States as a partner—has never been a truly fireball arrangement.

The Allies, who had set a goal of 90 NATO divisions for themselves, right now have no more than 22.

The Russians have 175 divisions which, although widely deployed, number 1.9 million men. The total NATO forces number about 400,000 troops.

It must have occurred to Khrushchev that there was another way, besides sweetness and light, to achieve the melting he

Steel Mills Run But Idle Workers Up

By BOB VOELKER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The nation's steel mills are operating at a pretty good pace. But thousands of steelworkers are out of work.

Production in the second quarter of the year hovered around 70 per cent of capacity—a so-called "normal" level. Yet some 100,000 millworkers were idle, according to the United Steelworkers Union.

What is happening in this basic industry? Statistics tell part of the story.

The American Iron and Steel Institute reports the nation's mills turned out 38.5 million tons of steel in the second half of 1960 with an average employment of 400,000 hourly workers.

Production rose 16.4 per cent in the first half of this year—to 44.3 million tons—while the average number of jobs dropped to an estimated 381,000.

In other words, more steel was produced in fewer man hours.

Government figures reveal a similar trend. The Department of Labor says steel production rose 31 per cent from January to June of this year while employment rose only 11 per cent.

What's the reason? For one thing, many workers get more job time when production goes up. This doesn't show in total employment figures.

But a bigger factor is automation. This is where the union puts most of the blame. The companies agree, but with qualifications.

Steel production is becoming streamlined. Not as much manpower is needed in the giant industry.

"This is the way it has to be," observed a spokesman for U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steel producer.

"Efficiency has to go up because employment costs are going up all the time," he remarks.

R Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U. S. Steel, believes that technological advances have created no long-term unemployment in the steel industry.

He says loss of jobs must occur in any progressive enterprise. However, he adds, increased efficiency will create more jobs in the long run.

The USW says it is not fighting automation as such. "It's progress," remarks one union official. "And we have to have progress."

He adds, "But everyone ought to be able to share in the fruits of progress."

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald says the answer lies in reduction of the work week without a pay cut.

The trend toward higher efficiency has been going on for years.

According to the union, it took 25.7 man hours to turn out a ton of steel in 1937. By 1959, it had dropped to 11.6 man hours.

Another union statistic: In 1953 there were 1.2 billion man hours worked in the industry. By 1960, this had dropped to 900 million. The equivalent of 156,000 full-time jobs was wiped out.

U. S. Strategy in UN Studied by JFK, Adlai

By KARL BAUMAN

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy and Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson sit down today for a point-by-point review of U.S. strategy in the upcoming General Assembly of the United Nations.

Their conference is expected to last for many hours.

Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will remain overnight as Kennedy's guest at the Cape Cod summer White House.

Also on hand is Harlan Cleveland, assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs, who flew from the capital with Kennedy late Friday and is spending the week end at nearby Harwichport.

Stevenson gave Kennedy a preliminary report Thursday on his recent trip to Europe, during which he conferred with French President Charles de Gaulle, among others.

While the discussion between Kennedy and Stevenson was billed in advance as dealing with all the problems expected to come before the U.N. General Assembly next month, Germany and divided Berlin presumably will be in for paramount attention.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the Western powers Friday he is ready to negotiate a settlement of the future of Germany and Berlin. But he advanced no specific proposals.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said there would be "no comment at this time" on the Soviet note.

Hatcher said he doubted there would be any comment over the weekend.

Germany and Berlin, however, had no monopoly in the Kennedy-Stevenson talks.

Problems expected to come before the U.N. assembly cover virtually the whole field of U.S. foreign policy.

They include the Tunisian crisis, how to deal with Red China's bid for admission to the United Nations, and the package deal which would admit both Outer Mongolia and Mauretania.

Vice President Chen Cheng of Nationalist China served notice during his visit to Washington this week that his country is determined to veto both Red China and Mauretania.

Late Soviet Word Raises Fresh Hope

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The latest note from Moscow on the Berlin crisis raised fresh hope that practical steps to ease that dangerous East-West dispute may soon be taken.

On the surface, President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev appeared to be in agreement that the Soviet Union and the Western powers should negotiate for a solution. Their stress on the need for negotiation indicated that agreement may be obtained fairly soon on the form, time, place and level of East-West talks.

The Soviet note is the latest in a series of exchanges which began with the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting a Vienna two months ago. The note was given to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Thursday at the same time parallel messages were delivered to Britain, France and West Germany.

Kennedy administration officials began studying the note in detail today. They were struck by the generally mild line in the note.

Diplomats said that much of the tough talk on both sides can be dismissed as normal emphatic presentation of positions but does not mean that once negotiations were started all effort at compromise would be barred. What the Western powers have told the Soviet Union emphatically is that they will not give up any of their rights in Berlin. Beyond that they left open a wide range of possible compromises, depending on the Soviet's responses.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said after a conference with President Kennedy Thursday that he could not see any reason why the Berlin problem cannot be solved peacefully if the Soviets "are willing to approach it" in a spirit of "reasonableness."

Rusk flew to Paris Thursday night. His weekend talks in the French capital with other Western leaders may result in Western proposals to Moscow for Berlin negotiations.

The Land of Opportunity Has Many Wonderful Attractions for Folks on Their Vacations

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Vacation time is here. It is not just arriving but has been with us since school was out, in the opinion of most. Maybe you are getting ready for your own vacation. Well, that is the subject of your Inquiring Reporter's question for this month: If time and money were no object, where in the world would you like to go on your vacation and at what time of year?

MRS. W. A. WILLIAMS said, "Lester, England." Why did she pick an unfamiliar name like that? It seems her ancestors came from that part of the country, and she would like to look up her paternal ancestors, none of whom live in the U. S. She would travel in the summer.

On the other hand, HARVEY BARR favors "All the U. S., especially the western states." Keeping in mind that many of the states out west are not suitable for winter travel, he would like to go in any season except when extreme cold prevails.

MRS. J. C. BROYLES is not particular about when she travel but her preferred destinations are "Ohio and Mississippi, where my children and grandchildren are. They are definitely my first choice."

Hawaii seems like a good vacation land, and W. H. GUNTER, JR., who was once stationed there with the U. S. Navy, would like to go back on a visit. "But not in the winter," he added. "The islands are too crowded at that time of year. I would go in the summer for the same weather exists then with the same accommodations at more reasonable prices."

"The Ozarks or Colorado in summer," said Mrs. Hazel Watkins Underwood. "I like the type of landscape mountains afford, and summer is the best time to travel there. I've been to both these places. I like them, and I would like to go back."

The western U. S. got the nod from CLYDE MONTS, who said, "I want to see more of this country before I go to another land. I've been east but never out west and would enjoy such attractions as those found in California. A summer vacation is nice," he added.

MRS. LESTER KENT gave the most romantic answer, "Paris in the spring." Songs, pictures, and stories have emphasized the beauty of that city at that time of year, and she would like to see for herself.

"An Arkansas vacation," said ERNEST RIDGILL. "Not to just one part of our state," he explained. "But I'd like to travel at my leisure times of the year." He likes the scenery, the sports, and the people and doesn't believe you have to leave the "Land of Opportunity" to find plenty of ideal vacationing opportunities.

All Arkansas members of Congress report they have received heavy mail on the subject—probably heavier than on any other single subject this year.

Some protests are to the effect that the writers have no other income than interest, that their total incomes are too small to require any taxes and as a result they would have to apply for a refund and wait several months.

Reports Rebellion in Hadramawt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The daily paper Al Ahram reported today a rebellion in the British protectorate of Hadramawt, on the Arab peninsula east of Aden. Nationalists, rising against the pro-British Sultan of Hadramawt, killed 20 and injured 30 soldiers of the sultan's troops in recent battles, the paper said.

LONDON (AP)—The British Colonial office said today it has no reports of a rebellion in Hadramawt.

In a statement issued July 30 at Mukalla in the eastern Aden protectorate reported looting of trucks in the area by local tribes. It said that troops from Mukalla went to the area, encountered resistance from various tribes and sustained casualties.

Some Taxpayers Got Refunds

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The district office of the Internal Revenue Service paid $26,013,527 to Arkansas taxpayers in income tax refunds through July 31. A total of 280,539 checks, averaging $100.50 each, were mailed. This is 14,000 more refund checks than were issued in the same period last year.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Thirty-two residents of the northeast corner of Conway County have been charged that the Public Service Commission is forcing costlier phone service on them by not allowing them to transfer from Southwestern Bell Telephone to Arkansas Telephone Co. They asked for a rehearing in which the PSC would reconsider its decision.

Cleveland Without Electricity

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The electricity went off about noon today throughout Cleveland and in a large part of the surrounding area.

Power was restored in downtown Cleveland in seven minutes. A large part of the city and most suburbs were without power more than an hour.

A Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. spokesman said it appeared the trouble was in a transmission line. The system runs all the way to Ashland County which adjoins Pennsylvania.

Few GOPs Rally for Loans to New Nations

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Senate Republicans—admittedly small minority of their party—rallied today to support of President Kennedy's Treasury-financed, long-term loan program for the development of struggling new nations.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said there will be enough Republican votes to put over the 6-year, $8.8-billion loan program.

The loan authority for the first year — $1,107,000,000 — is part of this year's $4,326,500,000 foreign aid bill on which debate opened yesterday.

The big fight will come first on a proposed amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to require the President to come back to Congress each year for appropriations to finance the fund. No votes are expected before Tuesday or Wednesday.

Cooper, a former ambassador to India, joined Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in asking Senate passage of the foreign aid bill.

He said that long-term financing is "an imperative condition toward making our foreign aid program truly effective."

He called the term "back-door financing" — which Byrd and many Republicans have used to describe the borrowing authority proposal — a "misnomer and a diversion in this debate in foreign aid."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., also announced his support of "the principle of some long-term borrowing authority in order to efficiently finance a meaningful development loan program."

Saltonstall, however, offered an amendment to give Congress a "veto" over all loans of $10 million or more. Cosponsored by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., it would require reports to Congress on all loans of that amount and give either Senate or House 30 days in which to disapprove any of them.

Four Riders Are Jailed at Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Four Shreveport Negro would be "freedom riders" were arrested today when they refused to leave the white waiting room of the Continental Bus Station.

Two other Negroes, who officers said drove the quartet to the terminal, were arrested a half hour later.

The six were booked with disturbing the peace.

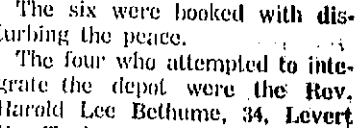

The four who attempted to integrate the depot were the Rev. Harold Lee Bethune, 34, Levert J. Taylor, 20, a student at Grambling College; Delores McGinnis, 19, and Marie McGinnis, 17.

David James Dennis, 20, a leader of the Congress of Racial Equality and one of the first Jackson, Miss., and the Rev. Harry Blake, 26, an official of the pro-integration Southern Christian Leadership Council were picked up a block away from the bus station.

About 20 policemen and an equal number of deputy sheriffs were at the bus station when the four Negroes arrived. The Negroes had tickets or a bus to Jackson, Miss. The four were asked to leave the waiting room and told they were violating local and state laws. The group was escorted out without incident.

Inspection of Passengers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Agency said today that if other measures to curb airplane hijacking are unavailing, it may have to resort to police inspection of boarding passengers.

Najeeb E. Halaby, federal aviation administrator, told the Senate Aviation Subcommittee that authorities are considering that action at airports within reach of Havana.

"Can you imagine the line that would form from the ticket counter in Miami if everyone had to submit to police inspection?" he asked.

Stalin Could

This was to alternate the good-natured foxy grandpa routine with threats which could hardly be ignored now when Russia has rockets which Stalin never had. So for years Khrushchev has put on a dazzling show, switching tactics from soft to hard. And all along Berlin must have looked like a good bet to him.

Here was a city which, although its links were with the West, lay 110 miles inside Communist East Germany, a nasty situation if the West wanted to defend it.

What better way to test the Western partnership than to threaten to take over Berlin?

Would France, the Netherlands, Italy and the United States risk a rain of nuclear rockets for a city which wasn't even inside the Western frontiers?

No wonder Khrushchev cracked down on Berlin. His trouble was he seemed carried away by his own zeal. He pushed his luck, got too tough and to loud too soon.

The Allies, instead of being splintered, each in the direction of its own self-interest, began to show more aggressive determination not to be humbugged than they had exhibited in years.

This may have cooled off Khrushchev a bit. At least he hasn't been rattling his rockets since President Kennedy did a little tough talking of his own a week ago.

But at the moment allied determination to stand firm seems more in the form of agreeing to do so than any sudden fervor to add a lit more manpower to the Western forces.

This week there was a burst of stories out of Washington—based on information from a source who refused to let himself be identified—which said: Current appraisals in informed Washington circles are that Western forces would be a virtual match for Communist troops in a conventional war.

The figures given earlier in this story—on the numbers of Russian and allied troops—hardly seems to bear out this optimistic appraisal since the Russians outnumber the Allies 8 to 1.

To say Western forces would be a virtual match for Communist troops in Europe in a conventional war is exactly contrary to what President Eisenhower told a news conference on March 11, 1959, when Khrushchev was threatening Berlin.

Pointing out that the 175 Russian divisions far outnumbered any forces the United States could send into Europe to defend Berlin, Eisenhower said: "We are certainly not going to fight a ground war in Europe. What good would it do to send a few more thousands or indeed even a few divisions of troops to Europe?"

Then Eisenhower implied that, instead of fighting on the ground, the United States would use nuclear weapons if necessary to defend its rights in Berlin.

But last week Defense Secretary McNamara, taking the same line as that informed source who refused to be identified in news stories, said: "There is no reason for us to assume that the Soviet Union can run over NATO. It can't."

Has there been some drastic change in allied ground forces in Europe which would make the Allies look so much stronger than Eisenhower thought they were? Not that this writer knows of.

Americans Jeered in Montevideo

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—Jeers from supporters of Fidel Castro greeted the United States delegation to the hemispheric economic conference today on its arrival. The American delegation landed a few minutes ahead of the Cuban representative, Ernesto (Che) Guevara.

About 2,000 fans of the Cuban prime minister, jammed the balconies of Carrasco International Airport to welcome Guevara.

The airliner bringing Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon and the other members of the U.S. group arrived first, however, and the pro-Castro forces' intended cheers turned to jeers when they realized the airliner was from the United States and not from Cuba.

Builder Dies in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Eugene John Stern, 76, builder of many of Arkansas' major buildings, died today in a hospital here.

He was born in Austria, came to this country at the age of one and moved to Little Rock in 1922. He worked on the Albert Pike Hotel in Little Rock, Arlington Hotel in Hot Springs, Union County courthouse in El Dorado and Simmons National Bank in Pine Bluff, among other projects.

He established his own firm, Eugene Stern, Inc., here in 1930. He later moved to Mexico City, Mexico, his current residence. Survivors include his widow, of Mexico City; a son, Dr. Howard Stern of Pine Bluff; three daughters, Mrs. Salome Hart of Little Rock, Miss Virginia Stern of New York City and Mrs. Robert Schaengold of Cincinnati, Ohio.

DOROTHY DIX

To Tell or Not to Tell

By HEEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You advise a "Desperate Mother" not to tell her eldest daughter that she, the mother, had to get married. When my husband's parents celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, we threw a big party in their honor, inviting the original members of the wedding party, all our relations and the fellow workers of my father-in-law. Most of them knew the real wedding anniversary was the 24th, not the 25th. My husband's parents thought we were rattling skeletons.

Not until eight years later did we learn why, despite all our efforts, relations between us steadily worsened to the point of no return. Now, the very sight of us sickens my mother-in-law. Neither she nor my father-in-law have seen their youngest grandchild (our daughter). They refuse to speak when we call, or to visit us. My husband had the heart-rending experience of seeing his sisters turn against him, out of unreasoning loyalty to their parents. All because his mother never trusted him or the girls enough to explain that she and their father had to marry because she was carrying the baby which is now my husband.

All my husband said when he found out was "Well, Mother loved me enough to bring me up the best way she could." No one has hard feelings this side of the fence. We only regret that in trying to show our love and respect and pride in our "parents," we inadvertently stripped them bare by inviting those who knew the truth to the party. —Dismayed

Dear Dismayed: This is one instance where you and your husband should speak up before it is too late. Either write or see his sisters. Clarify the atmosphere by telling the truth—that you gave the party in good faith, with no thought of rattling an old skeleton in a closet, for the simple reason that you did not know it existed. Make sure that there is only love and not animosity in your own heart. Keep the over-all objective in mind, complete accord between your husband and his family. What difference does it make, after 24, or 25 years, whether or not his parents were married before or after his conception? Let the past bury the past.

Dear Helen: Are the letters sent you read by staff members of the newspaper to which they are addressed, or passed along unopened to you? Of my several problems here's one that can be published. There are others to which I prefer a personal reply, hence the question. In my 12 years of marriage I've had four children, none of whom are baptized, my husband and I being of different faiths. For this reason we decided long ago to wait until the children were old enough to be baptized in the faith of their choice.

All's well till Father comes home drunk. Then I'm the target and the church the issue. Against his wishes I put our children in a Sunday school of my faith and here's where the boom has fallen: their Sunday school teacher turns out to be a neighbor with whom I refuse to associate because of her vulgar language and loose ways. What to do? —Anxious

Dear Anxious: To answer your first question — all letters are passed unopened to me. Now, for the second: aren't you and your husband missing the main objective of all faiths—to love one another. Suppose the loose-living vulgar-talking neighbor does teach Sunday school in your church? Rejoice that she felt concerned enough about herself to go to any church. Help her up the ladder. Don't push her down.

British Pipeline Hit by Saboteurs

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Saboteurs Thursday night blew up the water pipeline serving the British base area at Dikekella, in South Cyprus, for the eighth time in nine days. Cyprus is suffering from a seasonal water shortage, and it is believed the saboteurs are farmers and villagers who resent the supply the British get from a spring nine miles away.

Accidents claim more than 9,000 lives a year in Canada.

Government a Factor in Business

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—What the government might think or do becomes an increasingly large factor in much of today's business planning.

Government antitrust suits, tax laws or interpretations, import quotas, international policies, all play a big role. Today's news columns are full of examples of government interest in, and policing of, business practices.

Business decisions today often must go far beyond what might seem to be the prime questions: Will there be a market for our goods? Can production costs make the business profitable? Will competition allow prices that insure a profit?

Investors also have to watch Washington closely these days. Its moves can upset a corporate market, reverse a stock market trend, or even set the future climate for business in general.

State and local laws, rulings, taxes, franchises, zoning also can spell profit or loss to individual companies. In many cases they also can determine whether a company stays or moves—or where it moves.

This isn't to argue the right or wrong of any one or all of the laws or government policies. It is merely to state one of today's most important facts of business life: Governments at all levels are becoming close partners of business.

An example is this week's disclosure that the Justice Department is thinking about trying to force American Telephone & Telegraph to get rid of its overseas communications network. At the same time the government is playing, understandably, a major role in AT&T's plans to go into outer space communications.

The antitrust threat took the stockholders, the biggest group in the nation, by surprise. The price of AT&T stock dropped $4.62 to $92.1. That helped send the industrial averages as a whole down moderately from their Tuesday high. It halted, whether briefly or otherwise, a rally that had sent the market into new high ground after President Kennedy announced a defense stepup.

General Motors and Du Pont stockholders also are keenly aware of the possibilities inherent in the government's stand that Du Pont must get rid of its large bloc of GM shares. Not only are stock prices involved, but also the matter of income tax payments on the capital gains when Du Pont sells or hands the GM stock to its own shareholders.

Stockholder Appeals Gas Firm Merger

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A stockholder in Mid-South Gas Co. has appealed to Pulaski Circuit Court a Public Service Commission order approving a merger of Mid-South into Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.

The stockholder, Wiley A. McGee, of McGee, earlier had protested the proposed merger before the PSC and Pulaski Chancery Court. Chancery Court declined to block PSC approval.

McGee contends laws under which the merger is being carried out are invalid, that the agreement would deprive minority stockholders of their rights and that there is no state law under which the action could be done over the objection of minority stockholders.

His suit, filed Thursday, names the PSC as defendant.

Intervention in School Suit Denied

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Five Negro children whose applications to attend the Dollarway School were denied permission today to intervene in the district's integration case.

A request for permission to intervene was filed as U. S. District Judge J. Smith Henley opened the latest phase of the Dollarway case in federal court here.

The five would be intervenors are Charles Henry Dove, 7; Samuel Wayne Cato, 6; John Lee York, 9; Bennie Ree York, 6; and Linda Diane Huston, 7.

The Yorks are brothers of Delores Jean York, 7, who integrated the school in the first grade last year. Delores and one other Negro second grader are enrolled at Dollarway for the coming term.

The Dove boy is a brother of Ernestine Dove, one of the original plaintiffs in the Dollarway case. The girl later was graduated from an all-Negro school.

Film Festival

VENICE, Italy (AP)—The Venice Film Festival selections committee today announced two American films to be among the 14 in the 22nd annual competition opening Aug. 20. They are the screen version of Tennessee Williams' play "Summer and Smoke," directed by British director Peter Glenville; and "Bridges to the Sun," directed by Etienne Perier.

Grand Lodge At Magnolia
The King Solomon Grand Lodge A. F. M., and Ozzell Grand Chapter O. E. S., Jurisdiction of Arkansas, held its 18th Annual Communication July 22-25, at Magnolia. Attending members from local crafts and chapters are as follows: King Hiram Craft No. 15, Worshipful Master S. D. Deloney, Mac Raglan; St. Andrews No. 10, Worshipful Master Charlie Armstrong, Clemmie Gamble, Garland Neal, George Smith, Sr., chapter members—Beautiful Hill No. 5, O. E. S., Worshipful Matron Lillie P. Logan, Mrs. Mable Graves; Zorah Chapter No. 4, Grand Matron Lena M. Tyus, Worshipful Matron Bessie Smith, Worshipful Patron Jim Jones, Secretary A. S. Walker, Assistant Secretary Fannie Alexander, Mrs. Captoria Smith, Mrs. Jessie M. McGhee, Mrs. Mary Belle Wyatt, Mrs. Wannie Lloyd.

On Monday, July 24, Grand Patron A. L. Dias delivered a very instructive and inspirational address. On Monday evening, memorial service was conducted by Grand Patron Dias, after which Matron Grace Williams and members of Loving Charity Chapter No. 1 entertained the group with a banquet. On Tuesday, Grand Matron Lena M. Tyus brought her annual address from the subject "God's Light Shining Through the Windows of the Soul," which, according to reports, was enjoyed by all present. Mrs. Tyus was re-elected grand matron of this jurisdiction, working under the auspices of the King Solomon Grand Lodge A. F. M., for the ensuing year. — Mrs. Fannie Alexander, reporter.

Funeral
Funeral services for Mrs. Mary J. Jamison, who passed away at her home in the New Bethel community of Hope on July 31, will be held at the New Bethel Baptist church Sunday, Aug. 6, at 2 p.m. Burial will be held in Giles Cemetery, Hicks Funeral Home, Inc., is in charge.

Mrs. Jennie White passed away at her home, N. Dewey St., Wednesday, Aug. 2.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Hicks Funeral Home.

frame hanging directly opposite the entrance. He straightened it and read to himself, as he did each morning, the printed legend. Ugly is a field without grass, a plant without leaves, or a head without hair. — OVID, "Ars Amatoria."

Satisfied that everything was as it should be, he unlocked a glass show case, took off his hat, selected a distinguished gray-streaked wig from the case and skillfully placed it on his shingling scalp.

August Tillstor, wigmaker, was ready for the day's business.

9:30 A.M.—"I understand, Senator," August said. "Please don't worry. I'll make the wig exactly as you wish. Just a dash more of gray at the temples and the streak broadened just a mite through the middle. I'm sure you'll be satisfied, Senator, just as you have been for the past 20 years."

11:00 A.M.—"Believe me, Mr. Martin, I understand. When you come to August Tillstor, it is quite like coming to your doctor. Mine is a profession that has for centuries honored and shielded the privacy of the individual. In your case, Mr. Martin, appearing before millions of your fans on television, I know how important it is that we are very careful to enlarge the hairpiece gradually. Now, if we increase the size of the triangle from the hairline to the part as the baldness spreads, rest assured that not one of your viewers will have the slightest notion of what we have done."

1:30 P.M.—"Relax, Mr. Finner. Since this is your first visit, you have a normal apprehension. I am sure I can help you if you will but listen to me." August Tillstor's voice was soothing, his manner assuaging. "Look at me, Mr. Finner."

The nervous young man looked up at August.

With a sudden gesture, August pulled off his wig.

The young man gasped.

August laughed and placed his hand reassuringly on the customer's shoulder. "It is always that way when I reveal that I, August Tillstor, also wear a wig. You see, my dear young man, hair pieces are ancient and venerable. Man has used them as long as he has been civilized. Why look older than your years, Mr. Finner? You are, if I may say, a fine looking young man. Use the fine looks with which you have been endowed by helping Nature. Let me make for you a fine wig, a natural hair piece which will resemble the hair you unfortunately had to part with. Let August Tillstor restore a small joke I like—to you that which is rightfully yours. A fine head of hair. Let me help you and let an August Tillstor toupee help you in your career, your personal life, even your love life."

The young man, his eyes glazed at the miracle that was before him, nodded.

August Tillstor began his measurements.

6:00 P.M.—All in all, it hadn't been a bad day.

Two wigs in to be repaired, three to be cleaned, and a fine order by long distance telephone from a leading Hollywood star.

August sighed contentedly, made sure that the front door was locked.

He covered his models, then he made sure his samples were protected from dust.

Then, he removed his wig and unlocked the bottom drawer of his desk. He pulled it out and removed an electric razor.

Carefully, slowly, diligently, August ran the razor over his closely shaved scalp.

After all, it helped business when a wigmaker was bald.

(THE END)

PRACTICE MAKES LIGHT OF BOATING IN THE DARK

By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Daylight boating hours are long this time of year, but night time on the water offers extra pleasure.

The water becomes more calm. Harbors that were busy are quiet. The boatman heading out leaves heat, turmoil, insects behind along the shore. Yet at sunset most pleasure craft are hurrying for port, and manage to miss some of the most placid boating hours. Starting a weekend cruise by leaving after work on Friday gives the trip a head start.

Even many fish prefer to be caught during the evening.

Any skipper feels some uncertainty when he first heads out on dark water. When we were small boys learning night boating we admitted this was called being afraid. Then, as now, a little practice makes fear go away while leaving a healthy respect for the water.

We used a long oar as a sounding pole to feel for the bottom when we got close to shore, and a lead line to locate the channel running out to a fishing hole in the middle of the lake. Today, new gadgets make night navigation easier.

Make the first evening cruises on familiar waters. Pick a night when the moon is out line the shore. Try a short run to a favorite harbor. Plan to tie up or anchor by midnight. Turn in for a good night's rest before early morning fatigue and tired eyes start making strange forms appear ahead.

Every boat, from skill to schooner, should have aboard the equipment necessary at night.

Navigation lights are required by law. Common sense suggests a good compass, small flashlight and large flashlight.

The small flashlight can be used intermittently for checking the compass if it has no built-in illumination. No bright light should be left on long enough to spoil night vision. The searchlight will spot marker buoys, driftwood and the shore line, but must never be aimed into the wheelhouse or bridge of another passing craft.

The warmest summer night can become cool offshore when the dew comes down. You'll be glad for sweaters and jacket.

Even a rowboat should carry small dependable navigation lights powered with flashlight batteries. Clamped on after dark, they make chances much better for the small boat to be spotted and avoided.

More elaborate equipment—electronic depth sounders and radio direction finders—once were only for the big boats. Now no dinghy is too small to use one of the portable self-powered models. Larger craft now sensibly sport radar and loran, when the skipper can afford them, and the handy dock lights that mount on each side of the bow.

If the night gets long and you are tired or not too sure just where you are, drop the anchor if you are well away from traffic and busy channels.

Mount a bright anchor light, and wait for morning.

King and Queen Have Better Deal

An added incentive has been added to the individual bowling contest held each Sunday evening at Gaslight Bowl in Emmet. Blue Archer said today. Instead of the regular prizes on the "King and Queen of the Lanes" contest, their bowling is also free, as long as they can remain in that position.

On Sunday at 8:30 p.m. Fred Mathenia, local bowler will attempt to upset Dr. Newt Nelson of Prescott, who had a narrow escape only last week, winning by only 2 pins. In the Queen contest, Katherine Kalba of Prescott will be defending her title, won last week against Mrs. Dorothy Griffin of Hope. The winner is counted on total pins for a three game series and will meet a new challenger each week.

Worship God In His Holy Sanctuary

"Oh, Come Let Us Sing Unto The Lord," For
There Is No Variableness
In God's Cause, Nor In His Justice, Then,
Come Let Us Go To Church

all clear

In the "railroad" business the brakeman's lantern means everything. His "signal lantern" preceded the driver's stop and go light. It must be obeyed. The brakeman, like God, must give us the "all clear." It is the only way we may know the track is clear, the switch in place, for us to move with confidence. How reassuring when we know that God is clearing the way ahead of us.

If you were ever in a business a righteous God could not bless, then, you well know how it hurts not to be able to get His "all clear." But He warned us, "There is a way that seemeth right, but the end is death." If one's destination is Heaven, it is important that he get on the main line and keep on going. Let us take the church as our "brakeman." It will not signal us wrong. Let us worship God in her pews every week and support her many programs of service.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
